Jonathan McPhedran Waitzer
Jeanne Sauvé Public Leadership Program Fellow

Jon worked as Director of Head & Hands, a Montreal youth empowerment organization that has operated since 1970 within a collective, consensus-based governance model. For the past three years, he has also served on the Board of Directors for Montreal’s Centre for Community Organizations, a group whose mission is to promote social justice, active citizenship, democracy, and just socio-economic development by supporting the development of healthy organizations and strong communities. Before joining Head & Hands, Jon’s professional background was in management consulting and international project management. He worked with McKinsey & Company in Montreal and Ashoka in Berlin, and advised clients from the public, private, and social sectors on strategy and organizational development.

Chloe Ferguson, BA’12
Executive Assistant and Speechwriter for the Right Honorable Paul Martin

After completing a Bachelor of Arts in English Literature and Art History at McGill Chloe went on pursue a Masters of Arts in Journalism at London College of Communication in the UK. Upon completing her dissertation on the representation of Aboriginal protest in Canadian print media, she relocated back to Montreal to work for The Right Honourable Paul Martin, former Prime Minister of Canada and founder of the Martin Aboriginal Education Initiative. She has been Mr. Martin’s Executive Assistant and speechwriter for over two years, and manages his international responsibilities which focus on global governance and the G20, the global oceans, and African development primarily as well as his domestic interests which focus on Indigenous education and social issues and Canadian politics more generally.

Aquil Virani, BA’12
Artist, Graphic designer and Motivational speaker

Aquil Virani is a self-employed visual artist, graphic designer and speaker. While based in Montreal, his creative projects have taken him throughout the world, from Vancouver to Agua Prieta, from New York to Punta Cana. He has been called “the people’s artist” with his collaborative art projects being featured consistently on television, radio, in print and online by numerous organisations such as the CBC, La Presse, Global News, CTV, NPR, Canadian Geographic, Applied Arts Magazine and the Montreal Gazette. Aquil recently completed a coast-to-coast Canada-wide art project that featured over 800 drawings about Canadian identity in a single artwork. It is scheduled to be exhibited at the Canadian Museum of Immigration in 2016. As a member of the Society of Graphic Designers of Canada, he has worked for an international variety of design clientele including L'Oreal Canada, Maybelline, Just For Laughs, Shopper's Drug Mart, McGill Athletics, Concordia University and Paul Smith's College. Find out more at aquil.ca.

Hilary Morden, BA’11
Annual Giving Associate, University Advancement at McGill

Hilary graduated with a BA in Art History and English Cultural Studies in 2011, but had no idea what career path to take. She knew she liked working with people and wanted to improve her French, so she started working at Hotel le St-James at the reception desk, and eventually moved to the Ritz-Carlton Montreal as Guest Relations Manager. After four years in the hospitality industry, she brought her customer service expertise and communication skills to McGill University, where she now manages the crowdfunding platform Seeds of Change and mentors students looking to fundraise for grassroots initiatives on campus. When she isn’t being inspired by the passion and drive of McGillians, she writes a food blog

Géraud Banlier, BA’15
Talent Acquisition Specialist at The Createch Group

Géraud completed his BA in Industrial Relations with a minor in Political Science in December 2014. He currently works in recruitment at The Createch Group, a Bell subsidiary in IT Consulting with around 200 people.

Elizabeth Shiang, BA’14
Middle Office & Data Management at Maples Fund Services

Elizabeth completed her Bachelor of Arts in Economics and Geography at McGill University in 2014 and currently works as a Middle Office Administrator at Maples Fund Services in Montreal, Quebec. Prior to working at Maples, Elizabeth worked as an Associate Consultant in New York City and consulted with a variety of financial institutions including top middleware firms and tier 1 investment banks. Elizabeth also has extensive experience in middle office and back office functions.

Lindsey Simpson, BA’10
Business Development Manager at Earth's Own Food Company Inc.

Lindsey graduated from the BA program at McGill in 2010 with a major in Psychology and a double minor in Behavioural Science and Marketing. Since graduation, she has been working in sales roles within the consumer packaged foods industry, more specifically, in the growing segment of organic/natural foods. Her favourite part of her job is how closely aligned it is with her personal beliefs and how she lives her life which makes it barely feel like work at all!

Amanda Rushton, BA’13
Conferences & Special Events Coordinator, University Advancement, McGill University; Freelance Event Management Consultant

After graduating from with a BA in International Development Studies in 2013, Amanda went on to complete a Post Graduate Certificate in Event Management from Humber College in Toronto, Ontario. She has since worked on a variety of events that span across all industries, including World MasterCard Fashion Week in Toronto and the 2015 IIHF World Junior Championship. In April 2015, Amanda returned to McGill to take on a position as Conferences & Special Events Coordinator with University Advancement. In this role, she organizes events for McGill alumni and friends in regional branches across the globe, including Toronto, New York, Boston, London, and Hong Kong.

Vickey Habel, BA'07
Client Advisor at Translation Bureau, Government of Canada

I never had a career plan. I never knew what I wanted to be when I grew up. The most difficult question for me to answer was “Where do you see yourself in 5 years?” because I had no clue! My areas of study through CEGEP and university ranged from theatre, cinema, tourism, business, German studies and finally Canadian Studies. So I understood that I was a generalist; someone who likes to do many things without specialising in anything. I needed to find an employer that would allow me to grow and evolve. I finally decided on the Government of Canada. It is the single largest employer in the country and it is involved in every field imaginable. I started looking for job opportunities in the public service while I was studying Canadian Studies at McGill University. My last two post-secondary years I spent travelling the country representing the Government of Canada at trade fairs (part time) with the Government of Canada Exhibitions Program. Soon after my graduation, I got a couple of contracts for the public service through placement agencies and eventually, I was successful in a selection process which officially launched my career in the Public Service. Since 2007, I have been a Passport Clerk, Administrative Assistant, Legal Assistant, Civil Aviation Quality Assurance Analyst and now I am a Client Advisor at the Translation Bureau. I’ve worked on many interesting side projects, too!

Stephanie Gutnik, BA’11
Director of Marketing and Business Development at BroadSign

Stephanie oversees BroadSign's global communication channels, event attendance, marketing strategy and partnerships. She is actively involved with the Digital Signage Federation and DPAA. Stephanie was previously employed at News Marketing Canada, a division of News Corporation. She holds a Bachelor of Arts from McGill University and is working toward obtaining a MBA.

Jillian Molenaar, BA’13
Sales Manager at Meltwater

Originally from Ontario, Jillian moved to Montreal in 2009 and graduated from McGill in Spring 2013 with a BA in Cultural Studies and a double minor in World Religion and Communications. She currently works in Montreal as Sales Manager for Meltwater, a global SaaS company, and is moving to San Francisco in March to work as Director of Client Strategy.

Leon Mwotia, BA, MBA
Community Operations Manager at Uber

Leon graduated from McGill in 2007 with a BA in Political Science and IDS and then decided to make the leap into banking. He worked as both an individual contributor and a manager at the Royal Bank of Canada before returning to McGill to complete his MBA. Post-MBA he transitioned into the tech industry joining Uber, the ride-hailing company, as the lead for support operations in the Canadian market. Being on the rocketship has given him a newfound appreciation for the term #hustle. He looks forward to sharing his experiences with you.

Student Change-Makers
January 26 | 5:30 pm – 7:00 pm
Brown 2200

James MacFarlane
James is a U3 Arts student majoring in Urban Studies Geography and minoring in English Literature. In Summer 2015, James volunteered at the United Way Toronto & York Region downtown office. His primary responsibilities were research and creation of promotional materials. Upon returning to McGill in Fall 2015, James volunteered for the McGill-Centraide campaign as part of a student committee comprised of SSMU executives and other student volunteers. “McGill Students for Centraide” partnered with other student-run organizations to organize an apartment crawl, pub night, prize raffle and pancake breakfast. James’s area of study and work with United Way and Centraide stem from a desire to resolve urban problems.

Hannah Taylor
The Ladybug Foundation Inc.

Hannah Taylor began raising funds and awareness for Canada’s homeless at age 7. At 8, she founded
The Ladybug Foundation Inc., a charity that has made contributions to more than 55 shelters, food banks and missions across Canada. Hannah has spoken at an estimated 250 conferences and events across Canada and in Singapore, France, Sweden and the United States. Her simple message of caring and sharing has been spread to millions of people through her speaking engagements, books and magazine articles and countless media appearances and features, furthering her passion for helping others. At age 10, she founded a second charity, The Ladybug Foundation Education Program Inc. that has developed and distributed makeChange, an original Kindergarten to Senior Years multimedia classroom resource based on Hannah’s example, to empower young people to get involved and make a difference in their world. The Education Program includes inspiring original video, music, lesson plans, posters and other materials. Approximately 10,000 copies of makeChange are in schools in Canada and elsewhere in the world. Most recently, Hannah, through the Ladybug Education Program and with the help of wonderful supporters, has created makeChange Online at icanmakechange.ca, a free website adapting video, music, lessons and other resources to support teachers and students in making change in the world.

Hannah has raised in the millions of dollars to empower young people and support charities that provide help and services to people who are homeless. She is the author of a children’s book, Ruby’s Hope, and served for 7 years as a member of the jury of the World’s Children’s Prize for the Rights of the Child (Stockholm), fostering her passion for human rights around the world. Hannah had January 31 declared National Red Scarf Day in Canada by both the House of Commons and the Senate, to raise awareness of homelessness issues, in conjunction with her annual Walk a Mile in Their Shoes fundraiser. Last year, more than 50 walks were held in Canada. Hannah has spent many volunteer hours at shelters, missions and food banks in Canada. She has lent her time and talents to the Friends of the Canadian Museum for Human Rights campaign, the “We are all Treaty People” campaign, Raise a Reader, Assiniboine Park Conservancy Community Engagement Board, “We Day” and other projects in cities across Canada.

Hannah’s efforts have been kindly recognized with, among others, the Queen’s Diamond Jubilee Medal, Canadian Red Cross “Young Humanitarian of the Year Award”, Association of Fundraising Professionals “Outstanding Youth in Philanthropy”, Gerrie Hammond Memorial Award of Promise (YM-YWCA Women of Distinction), Rick Hansen Foundation “Difference Maker”, Canada’s Top 100 Most Powerful Women Award – Future Leaders Category and Canada’s Top 20 Under 20.

Omer Juma

Adopt An Orphanage, SOCENT

Omer is a U4 Arts student pursuing double majors in Economics and Psychology graduating in April 2016. Halfway through his high school he co-founded Adopt An Orphanage NGO in Karachi, Pakistan with the aim of improving the standards of orphanages and in turn transforming lives of these children. In the past 5 years they have adopted 2 orphanages with 200+ children and helped them with education, healthcare, and renovations all managed by students between 16-19 years of age. He established departments, solicited sponsorship, and designed strategies for 15+ co-occurring projects. He spearheaded the recruitment of 50+ staff members and volunteers, initiated city wide fundraising and clothes donation drives, and launched awareness programs on radio and social media to change the mindset of society towards this segment. This experience made him realize the untapped potential of younger generation and has led him to pursue a career in Social Development and Consulting. Currently, as the Community Development Coordinator for SOCENT he is dismantling silos and facilitating collaborative projects to build a resourceful network for social entrepreneurship in Montreal.

Phoebe Warren

Student Ambassador, Arts Internship Office Seeds of Change project

Phoebe is a U2 student in the Faculty of Arts double-majoring in Political Science and History. After being awarded the Gregg Blachford and David McGillivray Internship Award by the Arts Internship Office, Phoebe undertook a three-month internship during Summer 2015 with Liberal International, a political federation in London, England. After returning to McGill in the fall, she joined the Arts Internship Office Seeds of Change campaign as a Student Ambassador. This successful campaign raised more than $10,000 for the AIO within a matter of months. Phoebe also serves as a 2015-2016 UofMosaic Fellow with the Mosaic Institute, a staff writer for the McGill International Review, and blogger for McGill CaPS.
